THE SENSIBLE MAN

A Companion to the

"Charming Woman" & "Fanny Grey"

arranged for the Piano Forte

by

JOHN SMITH

MODERATO.

The Colonel has married Miss Fanny, And quitted the turf and high play; They're gone down to live with her granny, In a sober and rational way. Folks in town were all perfectly scar'd, When they heard of this sensible plan; For nobody there could believe, The Colonel a sensible man.

2

For Fanny two years he'd been sighing, And Fanny continued stone cold Till he made her believe he was dying And Fan thought herself growing old So one very fine night at a fête, When the moon shone as bright as it can She found herself left tete a tete With this elegant, sensible man.

3

There are moments which lovers can borrow
 From time every one worth an age;
 Equivalent each to the sorrow,
 They sweetly combine to assuage.
 'Twas so on this auspicious eve,
 He explained every hope wish and plan;
 She sighed and began to believe,
 The Colonel a sensible man.

4

He talked about roses and bowers,
 Till he dimmed her bright eye with a tear;
 For though love cannot live upon flowers,
 Miss Fan had two thousand a year.
 'Twas useless she felt to deny,
 So she used herbouquet for a fan,
 And averting her head with a sigh,
 Gave her hand to the sensible man.
